

Fancy going camping - Marbella style?!!

CAMPING is taking on a glamorous new image, and it could be coming to Spain soon.

A far cry from the mud and mess of 'roughing it' at Glastonbury, The Pop-up Hotel offers a luxurious alternative to 'being at one with nature', this is not camping; this is Glamping!

What is Glamping? The clue is in the name, glamorous camping!

This particular Glamping experience includes a variety of spacious tents, containing beds, with fresh linen bedding, en suite facilities, lighting, toiletries, and even access to a hair and beauty parlour, bar and silver service restaurant.

Aiming to extend their summer season by visiting warmer climates outside of the UK, including Southern Spain, The Pop-up Hotel could be coming to the Costas!

Having proven its popularity at the Glastonbury Festival this year, this 'transient hotel' will be travelling to several festivals and various beautiful remote locations around Europe this summer.

Mark Sorrill of The Pop-up Hotel said: "We are looking to expand abroad so that we can operate pop-ups all year round. Obviously with the stunning climate enjoyed by the Costa del Sol and Costa Blanca, it would be fantastic to pop-up here sometime. I would love to have a beach-front location so we'll be on the lookout for suitable sites."

The Pop-up Hotel is currently looking for landowners in Southern Spain to contact them, so look out! They could be popping up somewhere near you!

You can contact The Pop-up Hotel via the 'contact us' page on their website www.thepopuphotel.com